Support Nerds Partners with Consumer Priority Service to Provide Customers Extra Product Protection

Technical support leader for the home user as well as managed IT services to business clients teams up with service plan leader to provide extended warranty options on consumer electronics

Support Nerds, a leading provider of technical support for consumer electronics for the home & business user has partnered with Consumer Priority Service (CPS), a leader and innovator in the field of service plans, to provide customers the option of accidental coverage for consumer electronics. Support Nerds offer sales and technical support of consumer electronics for residential and commercial.

"CPS is trusted by millions of customers worldwide and our partnership will give peace of mind to Support Nerds customers. "Accidents and defects happen. By giving our customers the option to purchase an accidental damage protection plan through CPS, they will rest easy knowing that their consumer electronics investment is protected. On top of that, CPS handles the entire claims process with their five day service guarantee, so the customer gets their repaired or replaced product, and we can focus on giving our customers the best technical support."

The partnership will offer Support Nerds customers accidental coverage which covers everything from manufacturer defects to water and impact damage. Support Nerds customers will have complete control of the claims process, from registering their warranties, filing claims online, and much more. Our ultimate goal is to give the customer a complete, hassle-free service plan experience, on and offline."
